WOMAN'S RELIEF

A really healthy woman has little pain or discomfort at the menstrual period. No woman needs to have any. Wine of Cardui will quickly relieve those smarting menstrual pains and the dragging head, back and side aches caused by falling of the womb and irregular menses.

WINE OF CARDUI

has brought permanent relief to 1,000,000 women who suffered every month. It makes the menstrual organs strong and healthy. It is the provision made by Nature to give women relief from the terrible aches and pains which blight so many homes.

GREENWOOD, LA., Oct. 14, 1900. I have been very sick for some time. I was taken with a severe pain in my side and could not get any relief until I tried a bottle of Wine of Cardui. Before I had taken all of it I was relieved. I feel it my duty to say that you have a wonderful medicine.

THE FISH MESSENGER

It was on a tributary of the Amazon, far up in the mysterious country, so bound, interlaced and entangled by the snakelike lianes that few men had the temerity or desire to penetrate it. The stream wound away, now in deep channels, now gliding over treacherous quicksands or leaping sunken rocks, hemmed in by the forest and luxuriant vegetation that fell over the edges and hung pendent in the stream, licking up the drift until veritable floating islands were formed, affording rest for turtles and other small animals. At rare intervals there was a beach where the sand had been thrown up in an eddy, presenting a sparkling and brilliant contrast to the green.

On such a beach lived Manuel Saladea, famous as a hunter and fisherman. It was he who killed a jaguar single handed with his knife. It was Saladea who swung across the roaring Matos upon a vine and saved seven or eight of his people from the flood, and it was he who when held up as a hero scorned the term and asked, "Is it not a man's duty to do right?" So it will be seen that this Indian was unique in his way, and his comrades or the people of his tribe looked upon him with something akin to reverence.

To secure Saladea's services was a guarantee of game or fish. Yet for a fisherman he entertained some peculiar ideas. He objected to taking fish for pleasure and had been known to lift a comrade and hurl him into the water for killing a fish known as the hassar. He seemed to be the self constituted champion of the finny tribe. Why? Let him tell his own story:

"I protect the fishes, senior, because they cared for me when I was helpless. If an animal does you a service, you can but return it. I did not always think so. It was this way: Two years ago I lived on the upper branch of the Querto, the little stream which we believe rises far away in the up country, where the white peaks reach toward the heavens. In the season the river was low, and then we caught turtle, iguana and the game upon which we live. I knew of a certain place where game was plenty, and one day, without saying a word, I left the camp and paddled down the river and, leaving the canoe tied to a liane, cut my way across country to the spot. You know, senior, that the water is always washing away the banks and undermining the trees. Well, so it was on the little river. When I reached it, I found it lower than ever—so low that the sand was bare in places and pools were left everywhere alive with fish.

"As I unloaded my basket and net I heard a loud crash and, turning to see the cause, saw a large mona tree falling upon me. It was too late to escape, so I threw myself upon the sands. The three hours were a deep sleep. I knew nothing, and when I awoke it was dark. I was lying partly in the water, and over my leg was a branch of the tree. I was powerless and could not move, and I knew a rain would produce a freshet that would cover me ten feet deep in as many minutes. All this, senior, came over me, a sudden dream. It was useless to shout, as I was miles away and had taken good care to tell no one where I had gone. Morning came, and I then saw my condition fully. I was held by my legs and right arm. My left arm was free, but I could not reach the sand at my feet to dig it away. I was bound as fast as they say our kinsmen in the north country bound their victims for sacrifice. At the end of the day I was very weak and ate the leaves.

"The next day I ate the mud and water and some worms which I found. The stream was growing lower and water about me evaporating in the hot sun, and the insects bade fair to destroy me. At night the jaguar's cry fell upon my ear, and every rustle of the leaves, the sighing of the wind, aroused me. Did you ever hear the leaves talk, senior? They do, though it is only at certain times that we can interpret them. Our nerves must be turned to a higher tension, as Father Moreno says; then we can respond to them. I seemed to hear sounds I never heard before. The leaves made music, the wind sighed among the lianes and soft notes rose everywhere, and I imagined they were talking to me.

"Five days had passed, the water was gone, and I was so weak that I waited for death. As the sun rose and I was thinking how hard it was to give up life I felt something touch my hand. At first I thought it imagination, then by an effort I turned my head—Santa Maria! to see a miracle. On my outstretched hand was a fish we call the hassar. It crawled into it and lay panting, opening and shutting its gills and looking at me with its dark eyes. I thought I must be dreaming, but I climbed the fish, which slipped away, but I caught it again and ate it. It came to me a sacrifice, gave itself to save me, and when I looked around again to listen to a new rustling sound I saw that the ground was covered with fishes, all moving slowly down the dry bed of the stream, standing erect upon their fins in search of water. They came by hundreds, climbed over me, falling upon my face, and I caught them, ate them and piled them up about me.

"Hope was raised again. Yet I could not move, and my only chance was that some one would find me. Days passed, and I lingered on. I had dug a hole with my free hand, and enough water oozed through to sustain me, while the fishes that still crawled by me provided me with food. How long it was I know not, but one day I saw above the trees a smoke, and I knew that my people were near. I was too weak to cry aloud, so I lay and watched. The fishes still went on, and I passed the hours by counting them and watching their curious ways. They used the two fins like arms or legs, sometimes topping over upon their sides, now entering the little pools to refresh themselves, but soon leaving the water to crawl along again.

"While I watched them it came to me that they were going to the mouth of the river to avoid the drought, and could I not send a message to my people? It was an easy matter to tear my shirt, and with my teeth I shaped bits of white cloth until I had a hundred or more. Then I began to catch the fish. Every one that passed me left with a bit of white cloth pushed upon the spine of its upper fin. The next day I did the same, and for three days I sent these messengers to my people. The fish were black, senior, and the white cloth could be seen quite a distance.

"The days went by, how many I know not, when one night I dreamed that I saw my friends. I awoke to see a great light and in the center the one I loved best. Then I must have died of joy. But I lived, senior. And here the tall Indian threw his arm about a young girl whose dark eyes gleamed with terror at the memories aroused. "She, my wife, found me, and the message was carried to her by the hassars. So, senior, the fish saved my life, brought me my wife. What would you have me do? Forget them? I think not."

Such was the romance and almost tragedy of Saladea. He had been crushed by the tree for nearly two weeks. His people had searched far and near without success, and when the canoe was found it was supposed he had fallen overboard and was lost. But there was one who did not give up. She wandered farther down the stream than the others and one day pushed her canoe up a little stream, rapidly growing dry, to catch a turtle. Here she was attracted by the hassars that were coming down overland and escaping into the main water. While she watched them she noticed one with a white object upon its fin, then another. Catching the fish, she saw that it was no accident, but an intentional decoration. Following up, she saw others and soon recognized the fact that it was a message from some one, possibly the lost one.

Up the stream she went, sinking in the soft mud over which the fishes had safely passed, crossing quicksands, leaping from trunk to trunk until she finally found her lover apparently dead—so near it that it was months before he walked. With her hands she dug the sand and mud away and then bore his emaciated form, breaking a passage through the lianes, to the camp. No wonder he looked at her with loving eyes, and no wonder he protected the hassars.

Saladea's story might seem a fiction of the Amazon, but the habit of the hassars and other catfishes of leaving the water and crawling overland is a common one and is equally well known in India in the climbing perch. The fish do not carry water in their gills during these overland journeys, as is generally supposed, but breathe air and for the time are true amphibians.

Natural Sand Blasts.

The idea of cutting designs on glass by forcing sand against the surface of plates and vessels of that material was first suggested by one of nature's freaks, just as hundreds of other inventions have been. An observing young man who was summering on the coast of New England noticed that the windmills at that section frequently gathered up large loads of sand and hurled it with much force against exposed window panes and that these with in a very short time were worn through and had to be replaced. In places where they were protected by leaves, vines, mosquito netting, etc., the glistening surface was left intact. He set about utilizing old nature's hint at once, the result being a machine, which does work that cannot even be imitated in any other way.

ORIENTAL SUAVITY.

You Get Answers to Please You Regardless of the Truth.

The gentleman of the east feels bound out of politeness to give one the answer that will prove most agreeable. An English traveler reports from northern India the result obtained from intelligent natives by repeated inquiries. "Is it far to Gilgit?" "Not so far, your highness." "One or two kos?" "Yes, your highness." "Is it far to Gilgit?" "Is that what it is?" "It may be five or six, your highness." "Then why did you say it was one or two?" "To please your highness." "Now, what is the real distance?" "Whatever your highness pleases."

Here is another specimen: At a certain village the traveler inquired of the proper official, the cutwal, as to supplies. "Any eggs or milk?" "Plenty, your highness." "Sheep?" "Plenty, your highness," and so on through the list.

They were told there was plenty of everything. So they ordered a lot of things to be brought and rejoiced in the idea of plenty—milk, eggs and butter being occasionally scarce—but nothing came. Then they finally sent for the official again.

"Where are the eggs?" "There are no eggs, may it please your highness." "No eggs! Well, where's the milk?" "May it please your highness, I cannot find any milk."

"Cannot find any milk? What do you mean? Where are the cows?" "There are not any cows, your highness." "Then why did you say there were plenty of supplies?" "To please your highness."

A Story of Moody.

At the time of the great fire in Chicago Dwight L. Moody was living there and was obliged to abandon his home very hurriedly. It was too late to think of removing any heavy articles, but one thing Mrs. Moody determined to save, a portrait of her husband presented to him by the artist Healy. A stranger who had entered the room helped her to take it down from the wall. Then the wife called her husband and begged him to save it for her.

Notwithstanding the horror of the situation and the increasing terrors of the night, the ludicrous side of the matter at once appealed to Mr. Moody. "Take my own picture!" said he. "Well, that would be a great joke. Suppose somebody mistook me in the street and says: 'Hello, Moody! Glad you've escaped. What's that you've saved and are clinging to so affectionately?' Would it not sound well to answer, 'Oh, I've got my own portrait!'"

No entreaty could move him, but the canvas was hastily knocked out of its heavy frame and carried by Mrs. Moody herself. It was the one relic rescued from their home—Youth's Companion.

THE TRYING TIME

In a young girl's life is reached when Nature leads her uncertain steps across the line which divides girlhood from womanhood. Ignorance and neglect at this critical period are largely responsible for much of the after misery of womanhood. Not only does Nature often need help in the regular establishment of the womanly function, but there is almost always need of some safe, strengthening tonic to overcome the languor, nervousness and weakness, commonly experienced at this time.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription establishes regularity. It is a strengthening tonic, soothing the nerves, encouraging the appetite and inducing restful sleep. It contains no alcohol, neither opium, cocaine or other narcotic. "I wish to tell you the benefit we have received from using your remedies," writes Mrs. Dan Hall, of Broadhead, Green Co., Wis. "Two years ago my daughter's health began to fail. Everything that could be thought of was done to help her but it was of no use. When she was twelve, the picture of good health, until about the age of fourteen, then in six months she was so run down her weight was but 75 lbs. She kept falling and I gave up, thinking there was no use, she must die. Friends all said, 'You will lose your daughter.' I said I fear I shall. I must say, doctor, that only your Favorite Prescription my daughter would have been in her grave to-day. When she had taken one bottle she began to gain weight and strength and we bought another one, making only two bottles in all, and she completely recovered. Since then she is as well as can be."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

DEATH OF A PIONEER WOMAN.

Widow of the Late Capt.

Wm. Green Passes Away.

Mrs. Mary Green, widow of the late Capt. Green who came to California with Col. Stevenson's regiment in 1846, is dead. She passed away at her home on Treat avenue, San Francisco, last Saturday, at the age of 73 years one month and fourteen days.

Mrs. Green was a pioneer woman of this valley, having located with her husband at Embarcadero in the early fifties, where both lived for over forty years. Several years ago she removed to San Francisco to be near her married daughters. The deceased was a kind-hearted woman and a good neighbor and had many friends in and around her old Embarcadero home.

Mrs. Green was the mother of Mrs. C. Lund and Mrs. C. H. Wise of San Francisco, Wm. C. Green and Louis H. Green, the lumber dealer of this place. She was a native of Bandon, County Cork, Ireland.

The remains were shipped to this place for interment in the Catholic Cemetery and now repose beside those of her deceased husband. The funeral took place Tuesday from St. Francis' church, was attended by a large circle of friends and acquaintances.

SEMORE, THE FORGER.

Found Guilty—He will be

Sentenced Monday.

Chas. Semore, the fugitive forger, arrested in this place a couple of months ago by Sheriff Grace on information furnished by Deputy Sheriff Joe Ryan, who spotted the man, has been found guilty of the crime of forgery. Semore's trial took place before Judge Burnett and a jury Thursday. His crime was forging a check for $25, which was passed on Geo. C. Seawell of Healdsburg. He will receive his sentence Monday. The minimum punishment for forgery is one year's imprisonment in the penitentiary and the maximum fourteen years.

Wood for Vallejo.

A new industry is springing up in this valley and is proving quite remunerative to those who are engaged in it. We refer to the wood business. On Wednesday last A. Pinelli of this place, who has a large force of woodchoppers in his employ, shipped a car load of four-foot wood to Vallejo over the Southern Pacific via El Verano. This shipment will be followed by others.

More Wine for the East.

F. J. Kerridge, manager of the Dresel winery, made two shipments of wine to the East this week in carload lots. One of these was consigned to Chicago and the other to New York. There is quite a demand for the Dresel wines in the East and already ten or twelve carloads have been shipped to the principal cities on the Atlantic seaboard since the first of the year.

Wagons and Carriages.

Wm. F. Farrell, manufacturer of wagons and carriages and general blacksmith. A full line of Studebaker wagons, buggies and carriages. Repairs promptly executed. 711-715 Main street, Petaluma, Cal.

Harness Stolen.

The barn of S. H. Morse, residing on the King ranch near this place, was entered by a sneak thief last Saturday night, who purloined a rubber-trimmed buggy harness valued at $30. Constable Ohm is on the scent of the thief and will in all probability capture him.

NEW CITY TRUSTEES.

Breitenbach and Pinelli on Important Committees.

The Minority Members, Ciucci and Hotz, Decidedly "Not in It."

The first monthly meeting of the City Trustees under the new regime was held last Wednesday evening. President Julius Poppe was in the chair and the following Trustees were present: Messrs. Breitenbach, Ciucci, Hotz and Pinelli.

After the minutes of the previous meeting had been read and approved the President announced his committees as follows:

Streets and Sidewalks—Trustees Breitenbach and Pinelli.

Plaza—Pinelli and Breitenbach.

Electric Light—Breitenbach and Pinelli.

Finance and Legislation—Ciucci and Hotz.

Printing—Hotz and Ciucci.

Cemetery—Hotz and Ciucci.

The following bills were then allowed and ordered paid:

A. Caminati, ditch work..... $ 8.00

H. H. Granice, printing..... 42.32

G. L. Buiotti, work on hydrants..... 3.50

Mrs. J. A. Poppe, envelopes..... 4.00

Jas. H. Atherton, salary..... 15.00

W. T. Rutledge, electric light..... 51.00

L. H. Green, for election board..... 24.00

Joe B. Small, salary, etc..... 36.85

Total..... $181.97

When the bill for furnishing electric lights to the city for streets and public buildings came up for consideration Trustee Breitenbach opposed the bill and made a motion to lay over. The motion failed of a second, however, and a heated debate followed.

On motion of Trustee Hotz, which received a second from Trustee Ciucci, the bill was finally ordered paid, and the claim was audited by Trustee Pinelli.

On motion of Trustee Breitenbach the Clerk was instructed to post notices inviting bids for doing the city printing for another year, from June 1st.

The bonds of the newly elected city officials were then approved. Clerk Small was authorized to post notices for sprinkling the streets, 12,000 gallons of water to be used daily by the successful bidder. Also, to post notices inviting sealed bids for removing grass from the streets surrounding the Plaza.

Bids to be in the Clerk's office on Tuesday evening, May 13th, at which time the City Trustees will convene in special session.

A communication from J. P. McDonnell and Miss C. C. Granice, representing the INDEX-TRIBUNE, requesting that the city appropriate $50 to advertise its resources in the columns of its special edition, to the end that capital and well-to-do home-seekers be attracted hither, was read by the clerk and placed on file.

The electric light contract was extended to May 15th, and W. T. Rutledge, lessee of the plant, was cited to appear before the Board at the special meeting to be held next Tuesday evening and show cause why the rates for street lighting should not be reduced. This action was taken on motion of Trustee Breitenbach.

On motion the appointment of a City Recorder and City Attorney was laid over until the next regular meeting.

The Trustees then adjourned.

Card of Thanks.

To the many kind friends who lent their comfort and aid to me in my recent sorrow I wish to extend heartfelt thanks. Particularly to the brother Odd Fellows and Foresters of my late husband do I wish to express my appreciation through these columns.

Cleanse

Your Blood

The cause of all spring humors, pimples and eruptions, as well as of that tired feeling and poor appetite, is found in impure, depleted blood.

The perfect blood purifier is Hood's Sarsaparilla, as multitudes know by experience.

It cures all blood diseases, from the smallest pimple to the stubborn scrofula sore—from morning tiredness to extreme nervous prostration. Begin taking it TODAY.

EL VERANO. HAPPENINGS.

A. W. Weaver and D. W. Corbin visited Petaluma Tuesday.

John E. Kearney of Alameda visited in this place Sunday.

Eugene Dutil of San Francisco visited his folks in this place Sunday.

Martin Muldry and Granville Harris of Sonoma were in town last Saturday.

Kenneth Weaver represented El Verano in the baseball game at Petaluma last Sunday.

Mr. John La Torres and wife are up from San Francisco. They are guests at the Baines home.

Prof. T. C. Wilkinson of Berkeley visited his ranch in the northern suburbs of town last Sunday.

Hugh Chance is improving after being confined to his bed for a week with a severe attack of rheumatism.

A. Beretta of the City Saloon, Sonoma, was in town one day this week and went smiling down the line.

There will be a grand Summer opening ball at the Bellevue Hotel on Saturday evening, May 24th, to which all are cordially invited.

Right is right and wrong is wrong, but when you are in El Verano step into the "Old Corner" and see Adam Yenni's dogs.

Chas. Humphreys, the Southern Pacific telegraph operator, is up from Oakland on a short vacation. He is registered at the Bellevue Hotel.

The many friends of Pierre Casters, who was thrown from a wagon and suffered concussion of the brain, one day last week, are glad to see him up and around again.

Mr. Wm. Dowdall and wife, accompanied by their daughters, were visiting friends in this place Sunday. They returned to their home in San Francisco the same day.

George Bruns of this place was married to Hattie E. Dobbie of Hayward, Alameda county, Saturday. The ceremony was performed by Rev. John B. Wilson in the Howard-street M. E. Church, San Francisco.

El Verano is a town of runaways, as hardly a week passes that caving steeds are not seen prancing up and down our streets on their own hook. If this sort of thing keeps up much longer the streets and alleys of this burg will be strewn with wagon spokes and human bones.

The latest runaway by an equine belonging to A. C. Chance. This steed broke loose on the Pacific Improvement Company's ranch in the western part of town, last Monday, and after dragging the wagon to which he was attached all over the place took to the county road. After running for three miles, the nag was overhauled and secured. The wagon was somewhat disfigured but the runaway, which is a fine specimen of horseflesh, escaped injury and is still in the ring.

You Guess.

STUNG BY SCORPIONS.

Two Cases of Deadly Poisoning.

Dr. Walliser has treated two cases of deadly poisoning from the bites of scorpions this week. The first was that of Miss Rosie Camanita, residing in this place, who was stung by one of the venomous insects on the hand while gathering wild flowers in the hills back of town on Tuesday last. In this case the doctor was consulted at once, the wound cauterized, and no bad results followed.

The second victim was Emile Girard, a French liquor merchant of San Francisco, who is a guest at the El Verano Villa. He was bitten on one of his arms on Wednesday. The member swelled up to immense proportions before medical aid reached him, with the result that erysipelas set in. The patient, however, is out of danger and is doing well.

Association of Congregational Churches.

The Association of Congregational Churches of Sonoma County convened in this place Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. The session was a very interesting one and was attended by some of the leading divines of the State, among them Rev. Mr. Adams of the First Congregational Church, San Francisco, and Rev. Mr. Singer, State Superintendent of Congregational Sunday School work.

The visiting ministers were entertained throughout the valley and an elaborate dinner was given in their honor at the church.

The program provided for the two days was highly instructive and entertaining.

May Weather.

The past week has been very favorable for growing crops and pasturage. Showers, alternating with sunshine, have characterized the weather since the 1st inst. So far no damage from frost has been reported in this valley, but the vineyards are not yet considered safe.

The recent warm rains, however, have somewhat dispelled the fears of the vineyardist in that direction, and it is more than an even chance that the vineyards, like the orchards, will escape a nipping altogether.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer one Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

LINCOLN AND MILROY.

How the Latter Was Restored to the Service After Suspension.

In a paper entitled "Lincoln's Official Habit," contributed to Lippincott's Magazine by Leslie J. Perry, is a passage relating to General Milroy, an Indiana officer, now deceased. It reads as follows:

"The department commander at Baltimore permitted the enemy to creep up on his forces in the Shenandoah valley. Lincoln thus warned him:

"WAR DEPARTMENT, June 14, 1863. 'Major General Schenck, Baltimore. 'Get General Milroy from Winchester to Harpers Ferry if possible. He will be 'gobbled up' if he remains. If he is not already past redemption. A. LINCOLN."

"Milroy then was 'already past redemption' and was 'gobbled up' the very next day by the rebel General Ewell on the road to Pennsylvania. The case of Milroy, who was now in disgrace, illustrates another of the president's characteristics. The Indiana delegation in congress waited on him subsequently, expressing a strong feeling in favor of Milroy's restoration to command. Lincoln knew Milroy personally and had a high regard for him. Telegraphing to General Grant, then in Tennessee, explaining the Indiana pressure, Lincoln said:

"I share in this feeling. He (Milroy) is not a difficult man to satisfy, sincerity and courage being his strong points. Believing in our cause and wanting to fight for it is the whole matter with him. Could you, without embarrassment, assign him a place if directed to report to you?"

A. LINCOLN. "That was a manly thing to say of a commonplace but patriotic general, laboring under the cloud of defeat, the more so as it was said to the most victorious general in the service, who had but little patience with poor officers. Milroy got another command."

The Medicine Taken.

The so called "drugging habit" or practice of prescribing innumerable drugs for patients by the family doctor has been scored by a prominent physician. He states that from personal observation he knows that foreigners do not prescribe or swallow one-fourth of the amount of medicine we do, and he blames practitioners for frequently prescribing an unnecessary quantity of drugs. He advises the physician to condense his pharmacopoeia and materia medica to a vest pocket edition and then prescribe accordingly. He adds:

"There are three doctors in whose medicines I have ever had implicit faith—Dr. Hlave-to, Dr. Diet and Dr. Quiet. Dr. Hlave-to gives a person no time for imaginary ills, or for the coddling of real ones. Dr. Diet takes care of the digestive organs and sees that they are not abused, while Dr. Quiet has cured hundreds of headaches and ward off many an attack of nervous prostration." Of course, while they are all specialists, not one of these physicians could set a broken bone or cure a case of typhoid fever, but their prescriptions save much worry."

Columbus' Idea of the World.

Columbus believed the solid part of the sphere to be larger than the liquid part and the distance by the sunset road between the East Indies and western Europe to be less than it is.

But in those two capital errors lay the great incentive to the execution and success of his purpose. Had he known the vast planetary spaces covered by the waters, the continent interposed between his own Europe and the land of diamonds, gold and spices; the difficulty and peril of the passage yet to be braved in the far regions of the antarctic pole in order to sail from continental Europe to the oriental Indies by the western way, he would perhaps have shrunk back in alarm and dread.

Might Succumb to Royalty.

Two women sitting opposite the writer in an electric car pitched their voices so high that every word of their conversation could be heard by those sitting near them. Matrimony was evidently the subject of their conversation, for one of them said:

"Sometimes I think that if I was single I wouldn't marry the Prince of Wales himself, an' then ag'in I jumo."

"Yes, that is so," replied her companion. "I feel just that way myself; an' I have as good a husband as the average too."

"So have I—that is, as men run nowadays."—Lippincott's Magazine.

More Than Can Carry.

The Japanese have a remarkable arrangement that scoops vast quantities of fish into an enormous bag of netting hanging beneath the bottom of a vessel. In this receptacle something like thirty times the cargo can be conveyed to market that could be carried by the ship in the ordinary way. Furthermore, the merchandise is by this method brought into port alive and consequently fresh.

Whooping Cough.

"A woman who has had experience with this disease, tells how to prevent any dangerous consequences from it. She says: 'Our three children took whooping cough last summer, our baby boy being only three months old, and owing to our giving them Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, they lost none of their plumpness and came out in much better health than other children whose parents did not use this remedy. Our oldest little girl would call lustily for cough syrup between whoops. — Jessie Pinkney Hall, Springfield, Ala. This remedy is for sale by F. Dühring. *

Located.

No matter how widely some people travel, they remain provincial and hold the village they live in as the starting point of all knowledge. A private soldier once introduced himself to Lincoln as the brother of the man who gave the Fourth of July oration in Topeka.

An Andover clergyman is said to have fixed the town he hailed from with equal precision. He was present at a gathering of noted scholars and professors in Berlin. A distinguished German philologist just introduced to him asked what part of America he came from.

"Andover," said the clergyman, with proud confidence.

"Eh? Where is Andover?"

"Next to Tewksbury," replied the American.—Youth's Companion.

Skin Ailments.

A useful and simple application for many skin troubles of simple nature is a lotion made by dissolving a dram of bicarbonate of soda in an ounce of glycerin. This last relieves itching in a marvelously sure fashion in many cases. In place of ammonia, used as a remedy in cases of insect bites, the juice of a raw onion rubbed on the part is likely to be of great service in modifying and relieving the pain.

Meerschm Artists.

The artist who carves meerschm is required to pass through as severe a school of apprenticeship lasting from three to ten years as though his work were in marble. Meerschm carved and in the rough resembles the ordinary plaster cast. The outlines being complete, it is scraped with a knife, filed, soaked in a preparation and then polished with a linen cloth.

ANY HEAD NOISES?

ALL CASES OF

HEAD NOISES CEASE IMMEDIATELY.

F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE, SAYS:

Gentlemen:—Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your treatment, I will now give you a full history of my case, to be used at your discretion. About five years ago my right ear began to ring, and this kept on getting worse, until I lost my hearing in this ear entirely. I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, consulted a number of physicians, among others, the most eminent ear specialist of this city, who told me that only an operation could help me, and even that only temporarily, that the head noises would then cease, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever. I then saw your advertisement accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noises ceased, and to-day, after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and beg to remain

Very truly yours,
